

Crowe Ink

In an effort to keep this site devoid of clutter I used the trick of posting the short stories under categories which appears top-left of the front page as a drop down menu. It is much cleaner and I do apologize for the clutter you may have encountered when you first came here. It was a mess and that is my fault.

As with most things in life one learns slowly how to conquer ignorance of subject in due course and I am no exception. I also wanted a blog to go with this site but I realized that I already had a blog for writing at Crowe Ink. I just had other intentions for crowe.ink when I started this some months ago.

If you are interested in my news as it happens Crowe Ink is where I will post it.